

An underwater photograph of a coral reef. The water is clear and blue, with sunlight filtering through from the surface. In the foreground, there are various types of coral, including branching and table corals. A small, colorful fish is visible on the right side of the frame. The overall scene is vibrant and detailed.

Insert Text Here

twinkl.com