

The boat is steered from the back.

It was important to look after your horse as it was your engine.

A rope fastens the horse to the boat so it can pull it along.

The path next to a canal is called a towpath.

